the reported increase of the dividend on the last named will be less generous than was expected.

The movement in stocks included several of the more obscure railway issues, but the industrial specialties were almost entirely neglected.

Business fell off during the middle of the day, but there was some renewal of activity in the afternoon and in the late sension a drive against Reading masettled the entire list, causing a heavy closing.

The day's news had little bearing on the financial market.

Among the railroad reports submitted was that of the fialtimore & Ohio for November, which showed the loss in net cornings of $686,600 and a total loss in net for the first five months of the fiscal year of $1,400,000.

Life of the Nation is at Stake.

The French senate is now engaged in liscussing a measure which will be instrumental. Its lessening the danger of the republic becoming a drunken nation. Since the passing of the law of 1830 the number of cabarets had grown excessive, and in some districts alcoholism has reached a dangerous state. Statistics show that thirty years ago there were more than 300,000 cabarets in Paris and the provinces; the figure is now close on 500,000, with an average of one per 30 inhabitants, or one for 30 grown up nen. And it is not the workman alone who consumes alcohol, but also his wife and children. The figures further show that the divisions in which alcoholism is most prevalent furnish the greatest number of young men who cannot be admitted to tervice with the colora, or who have to be sent home pending their return after a while for another medical examination.

The French statesmen are conscious of the national menace of alcoholism revealed by the debate in the senate this week. Said M. Briand:

"The present situation is terrible. This is a question of national interest; the very life of the national interest; the very life of the national interest; the very life of the nation is at stake." He went on to say that he agreed with the words of M. Julien Goujon, a previous speaker, that "the nation has a duty of legitimate defense, which its representatives must andertake on its behalf," and the government must accordingly take the responsibility of action. It remained to be seen whether the proposal now brought forward would prove as effective as was hoped, but if it had any prospect of doing good parliament ought to vote for it. The government would be incurring a grave responsibility of action. It remained that the libery of induses, of the bill, and it had decided to accept and support all measures which were calculated to affectually of a continuation of the clauses of the bill, and it had decided to accept and support all measures which were calculated to affectually of industry and c
